All traffic in Geneseo and Madison streets, Waukegan was stopped for a few minutes Wednesday noon while Joseph Andrulis, popular butcher employed at the Chicago market, pursued three chickens that were freed from a crate by a small boy. A photographer was on hand to snap the supervisors as they gathered for a meeting and leaned back in the new swivel chairs before the new desks in the new room.

Twelve plants will be required to take care of the pickle production in lower Wisconsin the coming season, according to announcement made this week by Vogler-Schillo Co., the pickle concern, who anticipate one of the most successful years in their history. An added inducement for growers this season will be the announcement of increased prices, the 1924 contracts offering $2.80 for No. 1 (1 to 4 inches), and $1.30 per hundred pounds for No. 2 size (4 to 5 1/2 in.) This is an advance of more than twenty per cent over the prices paid at the beginning of the 1923 season.

The plant at Honey Creek, Wis., is the latest addition to the Company's receiving stations, and the new place will be ready for business when the season starts.

The county board is taking measures at the present session to complete the laying of cement at Gurnee. At present there are about 1100 feet yet to be paved due to the unfinished condition of the subway.

Charles E. Russell, county superintendent of highways, states that the subway work is scheduled to be finished by May 1. The concrete highway will be laid immediately after.

Flames Destroy Big Waukegan Furniture Store

The Schwartz Furniture company was wiped out by a fire which started at 4:10 Monday afternoon and Waukegan had the worst and most spectacular blaze that has taken place since the Sugar Refinery fire some years ago.

Roughly estimated, the total loss is $239,000.00, with but a total of $44,000 insurance.

The five-story building, with 95-ft. frontage on Geneseo street just at the south end of Geneseo bridge proved to be a fiery furnace once it got under way and out of control of the combined fire fighting apparatus of Waukegan, North Chicago and Great Lakes.

The building was 65 feet deep and stood two stories above the street level. There were three basements below the street. Flats occupied by four families occupied the rooms above the store proper.

The Schwartz Furniture company had what was claimed to be the largest furniture store on the North Shore.

The fire started at the furnace with three workmen within fifty feet of it at the time. Something in the furnace seemed to explode and hurled a sheet of flame into the room.

They called to Abe Schwartz, who was up in the store with his father and brother Harry. The former rushed downstairs and at that time just a crate and a baby buggy was on fire. He rushed back upstairs and told his father to call the fire department and then hurried to the basement again, trying to smother the flames with a mattress. His workmen assisted him but soon the fire had spread and when the firemen arrived the place was all enveloped in flames.

When the Waukegan department arrived on the scene the fire had gained rapidly headway and the lower basement where the fire started was a mass of flames. It didn't take long to see that it was a real fire and soon thereafter word was sent to Great Lakes and North Chicago asking for aid. The two departments immediately responded, Great Lakes with two pumpers and ten men and North Chicago with one pumper and its entire force of firemen.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Stover occupied one of the flats above the furniture house. Mrs. Stover was formerly Miss Alice Brandt of Antioch. The entire furnishings of the flats were consumed in the flames.

Sheriff Ahlstrom Accused by Girl Jail Prisoners

Sheriff Edward Ahlstrom of Lake County was given thirty days Tuesday to show why he should not be held in contempt of court on a charge of taking two girl prisoners out of their cells to North Chicago on a wild party.

Confessions from the two prisoners Miss Marjorie Moberly and Miss Margaret Darling from Des Moines, Ia., charge that the sheriff and his brother, Harry, one night in January released them from their cells and took them to North Chicago on a party which included, drinking, dancing, petting and wild auto rides.

The party lasted until 4 in the morning, when the girls became ill. They were taken to their cells, where a physician attended them, and the story of the party became known.

The girls also told Assistant U. S. District Attorney Charles L. Swanson they were served drinks in their cells in the Lake county jail by a friend of Marie Pink, a woman bootlegger serving four months' time.

After a conference before Judge Cliffe the girls, who are being held as witnesses in a white slave case, were removed from the Lake county jail to Wheaton.

FORM CALF CLUB FOR LAKE COUNTY BOYS AND GIRLS

The Lake County Guernsey breeders met this week at Libertyville and action was taken to take calf clubs in Lake County. The Farm Bureau is behind the movement and with the Holstein association lined-up good results are expected.

Mr. E. L. Reed of Antioch was appointed to take applications for members and is ready to supply all information. Applicants should get in touch with Mr. Reed before April 8, as they will have their final meeting on that date.

The association will guarantee all members a profit on their project in the fall.

The association elected as its president J. L. Wadell of Deerfield and E. L. Vinyard of Deerfield, secretary.

At the Antioch Woman's Club

At the next meeting of the Woman's Club March 17 the final business meeting of the year will be given in full.

All outstanding membership dues should be paid at this meeting. Please see the treasurer at your earliest convenience. It is absolutely necessary that membership dues be paid before the program committee can proceed with the plans for next year. This committee will meet shortly after the business meeting to arrange the year book for 1924-1925. It hopes to be able to carry forward every name now on the roll call.

The Woman's Club needs you, and you need the club.

The business meeting will be followed by a short program for which Mrs. A. G. Watson has prepared a paper on "Textiles."

At this season of the year the subject of "textiles" is supposed to be of peculiar interest to the feminine mind. A discussion of the various merits of silk, wool, cotton and linen never fails to awaken interest, even in so dignified a body as a Federated Woman's club. It is just the little human touch by which we know that "The Colonel's lady and Sarah O'Grady."

Are sisters under the skin."

Three meetings more—and another club year will end.

"Time flies, we say, alas! not so."

"Time stays; we go."

VAUDEVILLE AT H. S. ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The high school vaudeville will be presented next week, Friday evening. This is the first entertainment of this kind ever given by the school, and will contain wide variety of the best student and faculty talent. Mr. L. O. Bright, in Scotch costume, and Mr. L. R. Watson, our well known comedian, will each furnish individual numbers, which are worth going miles to see. Two one-act plays, one of an artistic nature and one of high comedy, will be presented by members of the dramatic class.

Also these in themselves are all headliner attractions, another treat is reserved for you in the form of a Big Long Reverie, repertoire of popular and classic songs, each introducing costume dance and specialties.

These features form only a part of the evenings entertainment. There will be eight big acts, with a cast of thirty-five characters, almost one of the entire school. This is a chance to see what the boys and the girls can do on the stage.

Remember the date March 21, at the High School.

State Senate Is House of Elders

State Senator Rodney B. Swift of Lake County has served two terms and asks for re-nomination.

The late A. J. Olson of McHenry county was senator for two terms and was re-nominated.

Senator Dunlap of Champaign has served twenty-four years and is again a candidate and is recognized as the most valuable legislator of Illinois.

The record of some of the state senators is worthy of study. Senator Rodney B. Swift is never absent nor tardy, always in his seat and watching legislation. His protection of the dairy interests is particularly noticeable. He has protested the conspiracy laws and prevented their being framed to hit farmers who would get together that they might obtain a better price for their products and he has urged legislation to exempt them and plainly set forth their rights to organize and cooperate. A new co-operative law now protects them in this fundamental necessity. He passed the bill giving the county commissioners the right to appropriate money to hire veterinarians to clean out tuberculosis in the dairy herds and joined with others to make the state appropriation one million dollars to go with a like sum from the federal government.

The Milk Producers' association commended his work by a special resolution. Only a man who knew how to do legislative work could have saved these milk producers.

In the appropriation committee and

NO LAW TO STOP VOLIVA RADIO

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, head of the "Christian Apostolic Church in Zion" can say whatever he likes from Zion broadcasting station.

If Chicago radio fans don't like his language there's a little knob on every radio outfit one turn of which will tune Zion station out.

But as for invoking the federal law to put Voliva's broadcasting station out of business—nothing doing! There's no law on the statute books that can stop it.

That was the statement made by Edward A. Beane, United States radio broadcasting supervisor here.

A number of complaints have been received at the Federal Building—several from ministers—alleging that Voliva's sermons are "unfit for any one to hear."

"There isn't much of anything that I can do," Mr. Beane says. "The radio laws and regulations are still in their infancy. They are vague and incomplete. And there doesn't seem to be any remedy available right now."

It was suggested that action might be obtained by prosecution under state statutes forbidding "publication" of obscene matter.

New Restaurant Gives Banquet for Firemen

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ross opened their new restaurant this week with a banquet to the Antioch Volunteer Fire Department Tuesday evening.

The department held their regular meeting at the fire house, and at 9:30 adjourned in a body to the restaurant, practically the entire department being present.

Frank Huber was the toastmaster for the evening. He thanked Mr. and Mrs. Ross for the wonderful treat, and then called on the boys for a rising vote of thanks.

George Bartlett, the village mayor, was the first speaker of the evening. His narrative of an incident in his life as a volunteer brought out the risk and hardship liable to be the lot of any fireman. Barney Naber was called on, he did not give a very lengthy talk.

Charley Mason, the "peppy" little leader of the Waukegan Elks came over to represent the fire department of Waukegan. Fire Chief Hutton was unable to attend on account of injuries received at the Schwartz fire Monday. Mr. Mason, in his usual snappy method, gave a nice encouraging talk to the department on the spirit of the volunteer fire department, also complimenting especially the spirit of good fellowship that existed in Antioch.

The speaker of the evening was Jim Welch of Waukegan. Mr. Welch gave the boys a fine insight in the history of volunteer fire department, reciting many interesting sidelights on volunteer fire departments in other countries.

Jim told the members that Antioch's equipment was as fine a pumper as any engine in Waukegan. His very complimentary remarks as to the personnel of the home department was very pleasing. Mr. Welch's offer to bring the Elks' band out here to Antioch for their next "big day" was greatly appreciated.

Mr. Welch gave some very pleasing compliments to the hosts on the appearance of their new establishment and the service and quality of food they had served, saying that he had enjoyed his meal more than at many of the banquets he had attended in Chicago, also pointing out that the boys also must have enjoyed their's from the appearance of the cleaned plates returned to the kitchen.

The banquet broke up at 11:00.

The tables were very prettily decorated with individual flower displays of sweet peas and the Pollock Greenhouse contributed a nice collection of potted plants for the opening event.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross are to be highly congratulated on the appearance of their new restaurant. It is a great addition to the town. Antioch can, without question, now boast of one of the best restaurants in the county.

Charles E. Russell, county superintendent of highways, is back at work after a vacation spell at Florida. He is expecting to push work as soon as the weather permits construction work. At present he is lining up the contractors in order to get them to start work as soon as possible.

Fail to Agree On Milk Price; Meet Friday

Complain Outside Milk Is Demoralizing Market Ask Relief

The milk board of the Milk Producers' association and the dealers have not as yet been able to arrive at a satisfactory price for milk. The two factions will meet again this coming Friday, and it is expected that a price will be fixed. Rumors intimate that the board is holding out for $2.60 and the dealers are after $2.50.

The conditions faced by the dealers are not in the least bit satisfactory toward giving a better price, according to the story of the dealers. This is brought about by the shipping in of milk from the north, and the trucking of milk into the Chicago territory. The Bowman and Borden group emphatically deny that they are shipping in any milk other than from their plants, and that the present condition is being brought about by the small dealers shipping in from outside. Some of the dealers are said to be getting their milk at $2.10 with a Chicago price of $2.25.

This has caused havoc among the trade in Chicago and the big fellows are having considerable difficulty in keeping the market up, according to their story.

The meetings between the producers' representatives and the dealers are said to be in complete harmony and together they are facing this menace of cheap outside milk.

This condition has hit this locality within the past two weeks when the Lake Villa plant of Selles Bros. have laid off some of their big shippers. Selles Bros. claim they have no market for their milk at the price he is forced to sell at.

Last Basketball Games at H. S. This Evening

The final basketball game of the season will be staged at the high school this (Thursday) evening, with Libertyville as opponents.

Antioch was eliminated in the district basketball tournament held at Highland Park last week by the Libertyville five in one of the most exciting games of the tournament by a 17 to 16 score. Antioch held a comfortable margin throughout the first three-quarters of the game. Entering the last period with a six point lead, they were overcome by a Libertyville scoring spurt which was too much to check and at the last few minutes of play were defeated.

Waukegan high school won the final game of the series on Saturday evening by defeating Riverside, and will represent this district at the state championship elimination tournament at Joliet next Saturday. The winners of the district tournament will play for the state title at the University the following week.

Libertyville who was not even considered as serious contenders, proved to be the surprise of the tournament.

WIN BY A MOUSE TAIL; $400 SAVED TO COMMUNITY

The result of the rat and mouse catching contest, held during February by the agricultural department of the local high school, has been determined.

The soils and crops class caught 27 rats and 64 mice, while the farm mechanics class captured and scalped the tails of 16 rats and 118 mice. Counting 1 rat as equivalent to 5 mice, the totals of each class were 199 and 198 tails, the soils and crops class winning by one tail. Harold Britton is the hero of the campaign, capturing 13 rats and 11 mice. Oliver Hughes comes next with 3 rats and 50 mice.

Figuring that each mouse can do $1 worth of damage each year, and that one rat will require $5 worth of capital to keep her going, the boys have saved some $400 to the community during the month of February. Next year it is planned to have the contest earlier in the winter.

The losers are to pay a penalty by giving a party to the winners.

Lake Villa's Basketball team made a trip to Onarga last Thursday, where they were entered in the Amateur State Championship Tournament. They were to play their first game with Gun Valley, Thursday evening. As this team failed to put in its appearance, Lake Villa won their first game 2 to 0.

Their next game was with the Urbana Indians and was played Friday evening. All day Friday Royal Falch, captain and center, was ill and when it came time for the game, he was still ill. The first quarter showed that the two teams were fairly evenly matched, as it ended 10 to 6 in favor of the Indians, showing they had the edge on Lake Villa in shooting. In the second quarter, the pace began to tell on Lake Villa's center and the Indians forged ahead. In the third quarter, Lake Villa came back fighting and managed to hold the Indians down to a nine point gain, but could not score themselves thru the Indians five man defense, but the pace was too terrific for our sick center and in the fourth quarter, he entirely failed us and the Indians romped home to an easy victory.

To some people it may appear from the above summary that Lake Villa's team failed in the test, but these persons must remember that several of the players were working in a tournament for the first time and it is entirely different from playing a game on the home floor.

FARM BUREAU NEWS

FARMERS DEMAND SUPPORT FOR FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION

D. H. Minto represented the Lake County Farm Bureau at a meeting attended by presidents or other representatives of 88 Illinois Farm Bureaus in Chicago, Thursday, March 6, called by the I. A. A. to consider farmer relief legislation now up in Congress. The result was that the farm bureau men unanimously endorsed and approved the McNary-Haugen bill for the relief of agriculture and demanded that Illinois members of Congress earnestly and actively support this measure.

The meeting also urged that Illinois senators and representatives actively support all amendments to the Packers and Stockyards act which will strengthen its provisions, and declared its unqualified opposition to the passage of the Williams Bill which, if passed, would greatly interfere with the operation of cooperative livestock commission agencies.

S. H. Thompson, Quincy, president of the I. A. A. was empowered by the executive committee of the Association to go to Washington and to do everything possible to safe-guard the interests of agriculture and to assist in the passage of the McNary-Haugen Bill.

The purpose of the bill as explained at the meeting, is to put the purchasing power of the farmers as it was ten pre-war years, 1905 to 1914, thus putting the farmers on a fair trading basis with other industries. It proposes to do this by a government corporation to buy the surplus of any farm commodity when its sales price is 10 per cent below the pre-war ratio. The cost of this operation is to be borne by all farmers selling the commodity below ratio by the issuing of scrip for a share of the commodity price.

For illustration, it was stated that in November, 1923, with the price of hogs $7.05 per hundred, the price should have been $10.85 per hundred for hogs to have had their pre-war purchasing power in terms of other commodities.

"There is no doubt but that the present condition of agriculture has had no parallel in the history of our country," said President Thompson in discussing the bill. "There is an insistent demand that something be done for relief. The McNary bill is the best measure that has been proposed to get the farmer upon a fair trading basis with other business. It reflects the true sentiment of men who are striving to give agriculture a fair show with other industries."

Answering the objection that the measure would cause great overproduction of farm products, Mr. Thompson said that he was firmly convinced that "rather than leading to increased production, it will lead to intelligent production and a level of supply and demand on the part of the farmer."

Farm Bureau Presidents' Resolution on McNary-Haugen Bill March 6,

Whereas agriculture has been reduced to a condition which not only endangers the future and permanency of the basic industry of the nation and which if continued will also demoralize and destroy the prosperity now existing in other lines of business and industry and

Whereas the restoration of agriculture is the paramount issue before the American people today, it is important that emergency federal relief legislation be immediately enacted by the Congress of the United States; and

Whereas the McNary-Haugen bill as now pending in the Congress of the United States, if passed would furnish this emergency legislation necessary to bring about this relief.

Now be it therefore resolved that we, the presidents and other representatives of 88 county farm bureaus of the state of Illinois and the members of the executive committee of the Illinois Agricultural association in conference assembled, hereby enforce and approve the emergency relief measure for American agriculture as is set forth in Senate Bill 2012 and in House Bill 5563, known as the McNary-Haugen Bill, and do hereby respectfully request, urge, insist and demand that our representatives in Congress earnestly, unqualifiedly and actively support and vote for this emergency relief measure and use all their influence and power to secure the enactment of this measure as the earliest possible date.

Resolution On Packers And Stockyards Act

Be it resolved by the presidents and other representatives of the County Farm Bureaus in the State of Illinois, and the members of the Executive committee of the Illinois Agricultural association in conference at Chicago, on this 6th day of March, 1924, that we urge the Senators and Representatives in the Congress from Illinois to actively support all amendments to the Packers and Stockyards Act which will strengthen the administration provisions of the Act and hereby declare our unqualified opposition to the passage of House Bill 5944 commonly known as the Williams Bill.

The executive committee of the Lake County Farm Bureau held its March meeting, Wednesday, March 5th, at the Farm Bureau office in Libertyville. Ten members of the committee were present as follows: President Minto, treasurer Huebsch, and Messrs. Flood, Jensen, Ray Cooper, Schreck, Darrell, White and Jordan. Several important matters came up for discussion.

The treasurer's report showed the organization to be in the best financial condition in years. The finances for the year appear to be well taken care of. In addition another payment of $1,000 on the indebtedness on the Farm Bureau was authorized. The original note of $3000 was incurred three years ago in 1921 and was for dues owing to the Illinois Agricultural association. This note is now reduced to $1000 and can very probably be paid off entirely within another year. All dues belonging to the Illinois Agricultural Association and the National Federation have been paid them, up to date. This reflects the good support of our farmers in Lake county.

The adviser's report for the past two months showed activity in the seed corn emergency, calling attention to the low test of the majority of seed corn saved last year. He also reported thirteen community meetings during the bad weather of the past several weeks with a total attendance of 1035. At these meetings ten entries to the State Ton Litter club were obtained and also a start made in organizing other club work such as Dairy Heifer Calf club, Pig clubs and Girls clubs. Other work done was the starting of a milk survey of tested herds, attendance at the week's advisers conference at the University and the ordering of considerable amount of alfalfa, seed corn and other first grade seeds for members.

The Home Bureau work was discussed at length and a committee consisting of W. J. Schreck, Gordon Ray and Bert Small appointed to call a county meeting of women, and get the Home Bureau organization started as soon as possible, if the sentiment favors this.

Some of the relief legislation before Congress was also discussed. The committee gave Pres. Minto power to represent the Farm Bureau at a meeting of Presidents of Farm Bureaus called in Chicago on March 6th, to discuss the McNary-Haugen bill, and other legislation, and if the sentiment favored this bill at this meeting to wire our representatives in Congress to this effect. Elsewhere will be found a review of this bill, and copy of resolutions passed at the Chicago meeting. Accordingly the Farm Bureau wired our Senators and Congressmen Chindblom as follows: "Lake County Farm Bureau Executive Committee unanimously urges your support of the McNary-Haugen bill as by far the most important of any of the sound farm relief bills. This bill aims directly to increase the price of such commodities as hogs and wheat which are now produced in surplus quantity, by the means of an export corporation."

Membership signs have been purchased for each member and the committee has had each member's name painted on them. The township chairmen were asked on motion to distribute the signs in their respective townships.

The dairy situation came in for considerable discussion also and it

STRAIGHT LINES IN TOP COATS

The box coat is the thing for spring this season, but there are box coats and box coats.

Straight lines mark the "1924 models." The flare is all gone out of the skirt of the overcoat; shoulders and body are not so extremely loose; the coats hang comfortably and drape easily, giving more style and just as much ease.

was the opinion that the Farm Bureau should assist wherever possible in the permanent solution of the milk marketing question.

The Apostles' Creed

"The third day he arose from the dead, he ascended into heaven and sitteth on the right hand of God, the Father Almighty—in the resurrection of the body, and the life everlasting."

I am treating all of these phrases together because they belong together. All of them are a part of the early church's reason for their faith in the future life. They all belong to the same attempt to defend that faith. And since this is true, let us first consider the main theme, Immortality. I will be bold enough to say that immortality is a fact. To be sure it is also speculation, but it is the mind's answer to the universal instinct to look beyond this life for the explanation of this life. When even the materialistic psychologists find a universal hunger, they say it points to a valid reality behind it—to the realm of satisfaction for the hunger. I am saying no more than that. Jesus said that God is our Father, and taught that God were more ready to give good things to His children than are earthly fathers. If God is in any respects good, he could not be so dishonest as to give us a hunger that should never be satisfied. In an address before the Oxford University, Dr. L. P. Jack said, "If the soul of the Universe asked for man's loyalty, might he not expect that it would also be loyal to him, that it would not involve either himself or those he loved in final frustration?"

Immanuel Kant, the philosopher, had another reason for his faith in the future life, namely that the development of character, and the building of virtue are infinite tasks, and that an infinite task requires an infinity for its fulfillment. That is reasonable.

Dr. F. D. Barker, professor of zoology in the university of Nebraska has found in the theory of evolution a reason for his faith in immortality. He says, "That which took millions of years to bring into being will not be scrapped at death."

In the realm of physics, we learn that nothing is destroyed or lost. You may eat a potato, but it is not destroyed. It is converted or changed into many things; it is converted back into its elements, and becomes something, or a multitude of something entirely different. It gives us heat and energy. It goes of from our bodies in heat and in our perspiration, and other ways, but nothing of that potato is lost. You may burn up a ton of coal, and tho it may make a great difference in your purse, it will not make the universe a bit poorer, for all the elements of the coal go back into the universe as gas, and heat and ashes. Now, is it not impossible, in the presence of this provision of nature to conserve the material forces of the universe, to imagine that the spiritual forces shall be lost or be destroyed?

Now let us go back to the creed. I will begin with the most important part first—the statement of belief in "The life everlasting" I do believe that—to the depths of my being. It is more than a mere faith to me. It is found in all mankind. It is a universal truth. I call it a fact. I believe in the eternal existence of the spirit, or personality of man, I do not believe in the resurrection of the body." I used to hedge there in the creed, and say to myself, "What is the most important part of a thing may be called its body, therefore, since the soul is the most important part of life, that is what I mean when I say 'body'." I will not be so dishonest any more. It used to be believed that the body literally did arise; that, if a man, for instance, were blown into a million scraps by a shell in the war, when it came time for him to be resurrected all those scraps would somehow become assembled into his old body, and it would arise, and that if I lost a finger in Florida, and a leg in Maine and lost my head in Chicago (many people have) that they would all come together and go to heaven with me. Some people go on the assumption that the more ridiculous you can make religion, the better. The early Christians, most of them, believed in the resurrection of the body. They got the belief from the Jews. The Jews had but just in the last three hundred years believed in a future life at all, and this much of an advance, we are thankful for.

"The third day He arose from the dead." It is not a central part of the Christian faith—it is not necessary. I believe that Jesus arose from the dead, because I believe in immortality of the spiritual part of God's children. Whether Jesus arose on the third or fourth, or hundredth day, or whether any one saw him or not, would not change my faith that he was immortal, for all personality is immortal, or so I most steadfastly believe. The story of Jesus' ascension could only come from a time when people believed in a flat earth, and Heaven just above it, straight up. For those who have studied astronomy, it is not so easy to say where Heaven is, nor in what direction. If it were straight up at 10 o'clock, where would it be at four o'clock. I will go them one better as to faith in immortality, I will say that Jesus never died. We are not consistent in the way we talk about death. The spirit can not be killed. I believe that the spirit goes from this life to the next as a person goes from one room to another. I do not believe that the body dies, and the spirit goes somewhere on a vacation for a while, and then comes back some time gets into the body, and then goes somewhere, either straight up, or straight out.

"He sitteth on the right hand of God—" I do not believe that God has a sitting down job, and I do not think that Jesus has either. You may say that those who made the creed did not think so, but they did. You must remember that this creed was made before the world was discovered to be round. To them it was flat, and heaven was up stairs to the earth, and it was a place—not just a condition, as it is with us. And they actually did think of God, as of an Oriental despot, sitting on a real, material throne, up in the top of the highest of the seven heavens, and of ruling the world and the heavens by the aid of a corps of angels, for His Western Union messenger service. God is a spirit, and Jesus is a spirit. I do believe that God is everywhere. That His spirit is near all of us, that He is not dependent upon angels to carry His messages to earth. I believe in Jesus, in the eternal spirit of Jesus. I do believe in the eternal, ever present spirit of God. I do not believe that any one of these other phrases are essential to the last one, which tells of faith in immortality, and I can not bear to use proofs which satisfied people two thousand years ago, but which can not by any sophistry be made to satisfy folks today, except people who think the earth is flat, and that Heaven is a place, like the earth is a place. So I shall turn from these statements, to some of the may proofs of immortality which are so near to our hand in this twentieth century.

—E Lester Stanton.

GET YOUR SEED CORN READY

Getting seed corn ready to plant is too important to be left until the last minute. After the seed ears are finally selected the irregular kernels on the butts and tips of the ears should be shelled off and discarded. Hand shelling is best.

Sometimes an ear will look all right before shelling but will have a large number of kernels with damaged tips. Each ear therefore should be shelled separately and the kernels inspected before mixing with the general supply.

Dear Friends:

Have spent one week here and find it a great city, the center or heart of city is a four square park surrounded by big stores, hotels, Masonic temple, office buildings, People's bank, postoffice and numerous show houses. The weather at this time of the year is mostly fair and warm, registering 60 to 75 each day, had one shower of one half hour duration when the sun came out bright and strong again and clear blue sky.

The Mardi Gras carnival is over, lasting four days and was a gorgeous sight, rich and poor young and old participating alike. We enjoyed this as it was our first experience of its kind.

Had a 17 mile trip across Mobile Bay to a place called Fairhops, a population of 1000 and 90% northerners. Here we find plenty of sea food, fruits and pecan nuts.

From here we are going to Biloxi, Gulfport, New Orleans, and on our return trip stop at Montgomery, Birmingham and Nashville making in all a 5-weeks trip and hope to come back with plenty of warm weather and sunshine for all.

Respectfully,
Mr. and Mrs. Robert Selter.

Dougall grunted. "Serves it right," he said "for getting in the way of your shot."

Repeated queries of "Why don't we organize our commercial association" are becoming more numerous now that the good old days are approaching. The need of an organization with teeth in it is becoming more apparent to the business men each day. Pure lack of initiative on the part of the merchants of Antioch is all that is stopping it.

The old association died a slow death from inertia and it is being realized now that this was a big mistake. All signs point to a big opportunity for the future of Antioch, but it is not going to be pushed on to Antioch, we have got to go after it.

A real live up and at 'em organization will be able to do wonders for Antioch in the next few years, but you've got to organize—Someone start something!

Politics is the main question of the day with the approach of the spring primaries. All the candidates are getting busy and it looks as if we were going to have some real fireworks before it is over.

Governor Small has made his Lake County appearance in Waukegan, and from the reception he received and the impression he left, things look rather pretty for him in this neck of the woods. Essington, as yet, has not bothered with the natives of the wilds of Northern Illinois outside of having one of our local citizens post his autographed picture in type.

We expect to hear from the other candidates when the roads open up, if ever.

Justices Too Numerous, Plea at Board Meeting

"All dressed up and few places to go" will be the predicament of eloping lovers who come to Lake county to get married according to a threat voiced in this morning's session of the Board of Supervisors.

"There are too many justices of the peace in the country sections," declared Supervisor Ficke. "There ought to be some action taken to cut down the supply and to save the county from being overrun now."

Supervisor Ficke, is a police magistrate.

Comment on the justice of the peace supply was brought forth by the financial report read before the board. The justice fees' fund had $1,500 appropriated to it in September and of this amount $1,214 has already been expended. Therefore, the justices have only $286 on which to draw for the coming six months. It is expected that added appropriations for this fund will have to be made.

Police magistrates in the country are living from hand to mouth because the justices get all the cases, was the picture painted at the supervisors meeting.

Consider the predicament of a couple of lovers, roaming through the wilds of Lake county seeking some justice of the peace. They would have to take their honeymoon on the same trip with the eloping affair. And if they were unable to find a justice of the peace, they would have to return home unmarried and Lake county would lose another customer for its marriage mill.

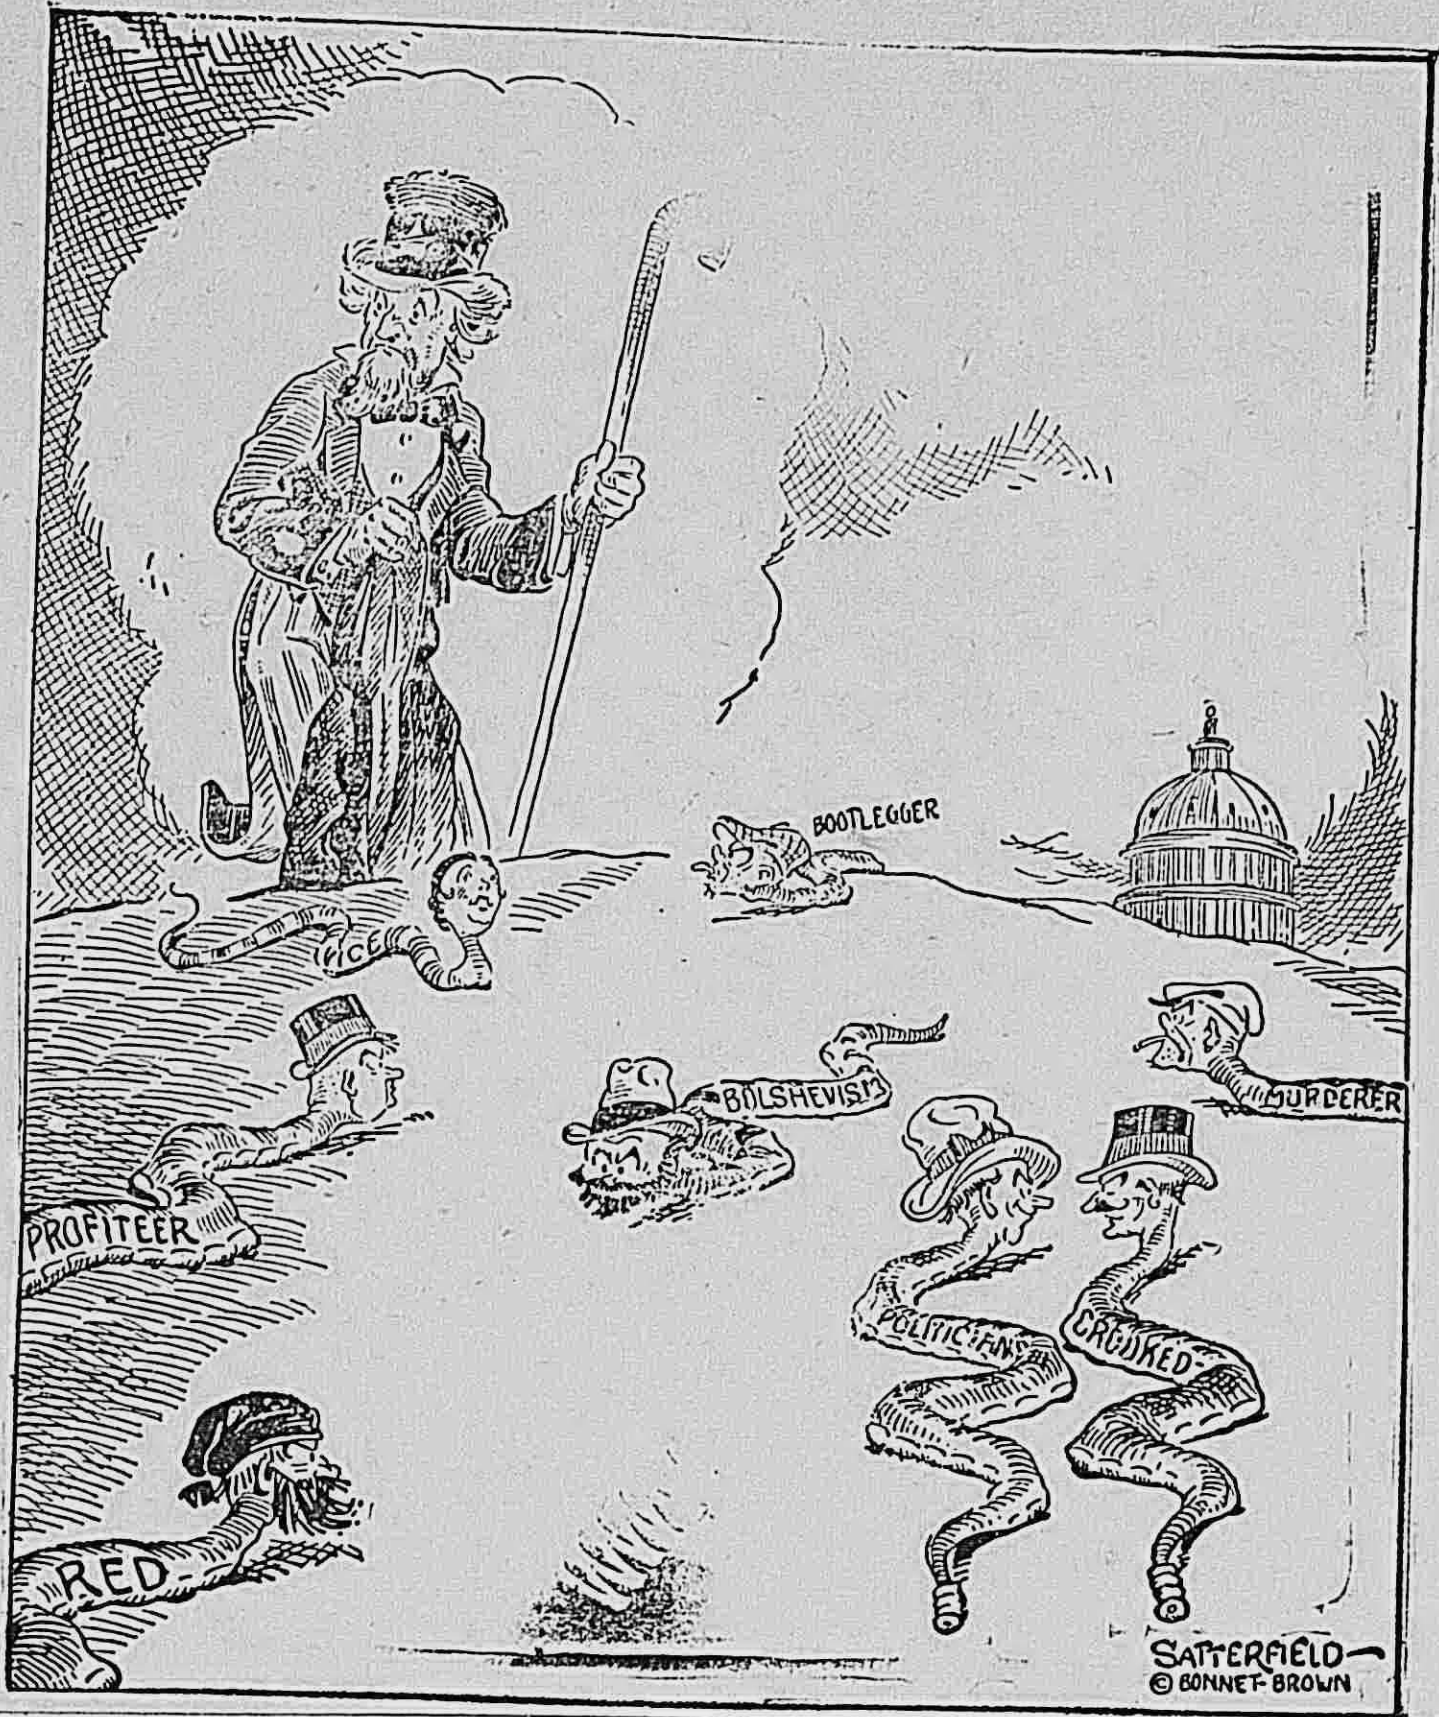

But take heart again Cupid. The board allowed the bill so everything is O. K. for love's romances at least for a little while yet. And Waukegan gets most marriages:

Problems of agricultural production in areas adjacent to cities to determine what adjustments in production are necessary to meet local demands are being studied by the United States department of agriculture.

A survey of this type in the area around Altoona, Pa., showed that local producers are missing important opportunities to satisfy the food demands of consumers. Similar studies in a number of other sections of the country are to be made by the bureau during the current year.

GIVES RULING ON MOTOR LICENCES

Every firm, person or corporation in Illinois carrying passengers or freight in motor vehicles, for hire, operating regularly on fixed or definite routes or improved highways, is required to pay a "prorata license fee, as provided in section 9A of the motorvehicle law," according to an opinion of Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, delivered to Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson.

"Section 9A of the motor vehicle law," Mr. Brundage said, "applies to all vehicles, trailers and semitrailers used for carrying freight for hire and also all vehicles, trailers and semitrailers of the second division, as described in section No. 2 of said act, used for carrying passengers for hire and operating regularly.

"The second division of section No. 2 of said act includes these vehicles which are designed and used for pulling and carrying freight, and also those vehicles or motor cars which are designed and used for the carrying of more than seven persons."

Prior to the amendment approved June 29, 1923, section 9A provided, Mr. Brundage said, that for the use of all vehicles of the classes above mentioned an additional license fee should be paid monthly, "on or before the tenth of each month" for the preceding calendar month. "This provision he continued, "was changed by the amendment so as to provide as follows:

"Such additional license fee shall be payable annually to the secretary of state on or before January 1 or within 10 days from the time any person enters into the business of operating such vehicles for hire, but the fee herein provided for shall be reduced by one-half for the first year any person engages in such business if he begins operations after July 1, of such year.

"It is apparent," the attorney general said, "that the payment of additional fee, as provided by this amendment, was intended to be made in lieu of the monthly payments required by the former provisions of this section, which were omitted in the amendatory act, which became effective July 1, 1923."

WILL YOUR SEED CORN GROW?

Many farmers have an abundant supply of seed corn selected before frost last fall and cared for so that they may be reasonably sure it will grow. Others selected their seed later, either at husking time or from the crib. In any event it is well to make sure that the seed will grow.

Two kernels taken from each of 100 ears and tested for germination will tell the story, says the United States Department of Agriculture. If these kernels germinate well, all right. If not, the sooner you know it the better. New seed may still be obtained, or the best on hand may be selected through a germination test of the individual ears. The field is an expensive place to test the germination of seed corn.

Fight Is on to Control the Air

The American Telephone and Telegraph company has begun to close down all but forty of the 563 radio-telephone broadcasting stations in this country. Several days ago it quietly filed complaint and summons against Marcus Loew and George Schubel, operators of radio station WHN, asking for a permanent injunction against further broadcasting by the Loew station.

Charles Pope Caldwell, general counsel for the Radio Broadcasting society of America, an organization of independent broadcasters representing Loew and Schubel, said:

"This is going to be a hard fight. We will combat this action of the A. T. & T. with every resource at our command."

The company's patent attorney said, "WHN is infringing upon our patent rights by broadcasting. They are not the only ones. Only about forty of the 563 broadcasting stations that have been licensed by us are not infringing on patents we control. We are going ahead in this injunction suit, confident of our stand.

"We do not wish to prosecute 400 or 500 stations at once, so we are bringing the first suit against WHN. All have had the opportunity to get licenses from us. WHN was given a warning some time ago, but showed no inclination to do anything but go on and broadcast."

He admitted the "license" issued by the telephone company prohibited the broadcasting station licensed from accepting fees for their broadcasting.

When asked if this did not constitute a monopoly of the air, the attorney declared:

"Yes, if our stand is upheld by the courts it will give the American Telephone and Telegraph company control of the air insofar as the present methods of broadcasting are concerned. That's what patents are for."

Egg Price War in Progress By Waukegan Merchants

Following close on the coal price war that has been inaugurated by the Waukegan dealers, comes a war on the price of eggs with the various merchants slashing prices in a way that brings satisfaction to the hearts of housewives.

There was a time when granulated sugar was the popular "leader" in grocery stores. The merchant who could sell sugar the cheapest or present the most tempting grocery order with sugar as the bait, usually figured that he was getting additional trade.

For the last two or three weeks eggs have become the chief "leader" item in Waukegan stores. When the war first started eggs were selling from fifty to sixty cents a dozen.

The competition soon caused one merchant after another to start slashing prices and it is interesting to note the prices at which eggs are offered in various places. All advertised strictly fresh eggs. At the present time the price varies from forty cents a dozen to twenty-five cents and it is difficult to tell how much lower the price will go. The warm weather that has prevailed may have had something to do with it as this has produced an unusually heavy supply of eggs but the fact remains that it has been years since the price of eggs at this season has been as low as it is at present.

Members of the staff of the bureau of entomology and one from the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States department of agriculture have been cooperating in estimating the loss of sugar cane in Louisiana due to the sugar-cane moth borer. Two estimates obtained independently were found to agree very closely. It is indicated that the average loss is about one-fifth of the sugar crop.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Friends:

When I left Antioch for Detroit, I promised one of the representatives of the News that if there was anything in the way of attractions or events that would interest the readers of your paper in my blunt and commonplace way I would be glad to fulfill that promise. Yesterday being a perfect day considering the season of the year warm and balmy I betake myself in the direction of the new Masonic Temple as one approaches this amazing and beautiful awe inspiring work of architecture it reminds us of some of those medieval castles with its turrets towns minarets only its grandeur is enhanced by the more modern beauty of classical architecture. The construction of the edifice was begun over three years since and it will require at least two years before the interior will be complete. I was introduced to the superintendent of construction who in turn presented me to another official who volunteered to take me through the principal auditoriums, banquetting halls, ymnasium, billiard, bowling, swimming pools, clubs and drill rooms and many other too numerous to mention here. The structure is located on the corner of Temple and Second street. Five hundred feet on Temple and one hundred and forty on Second. The main part of the building is two stories in height, the material is a nearly white granite or may be sand stone. The quarries from which the natural is located are in Indiana. The designs in the ornamental work show a very high degree of the architects genius. The consistory auditorium has a seating capacity of five thousand is circular in shape and is something similar to a massive amphetheatre or arena. My attendant informed me that the cost of the electric system would be at least seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars and when one considers the plumbing, heating, ventilation, etc., etc., we are not very much surprised when they tell us the cost of the structure will be at least seven million dollars it certainly will be a credit to the Masons of Detroit as well as a lasting monument to the city. Detroit boasts of having the largest Chapter in the world. The Palastine over five thousand members. They have a magnificent Temple on Grand River avenue North and if my expectations are realized I will visit it some time in the near future.

Detroit is certainly an up-to-date and progressive city as far as business and manufacturing industries are concerned but I note that the streets are not as clean as some cities that I have been in but perhaps the conditions may be the same in most of the cities at this season of the year and the time is not very far away when the traffic facilities must be improved. The churches, hotels, theatres and public buildings are fully up to modern standards and with a few more Henry Fords to furnish labor for the many thousands of the working class. She is destined to be one of the leading manufacturing cities of the world.

BETTER-SIRES WORK IS PROMOTED

"The Alabama beef cattle breeders have sold all of their surplus bulls of breeding age," says K. G. Baker, extension market agent of that State, who recently visited the United States Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Baker cites as one reason for this increased demand for bulls the influence of the cooperative show and sale of feeder cattle held in October at the Montgomery Union Stock yards, in cooperation with the State Extension Service.

In this event nearly 1,200 head of cattle were sold at auction, many of them going to feedlot buyers representing adjoining and more northern states. Before the sale the cattle were all publicly graded for quality, size, sex, etc., and demonstrations made to show the advantages of using pure-bred bulls of good quality.

Producers received from 2 to 3 cents per pound more for their cattle under this system than they could obtain by marketing them in ungraded lots to local buyers.

Plans have been made to continue this enterprise as a permanent annual event, and it is expected to provide a much-needed stimulus to beef cattle production in that section.

The Custard Cup

by Florence Bingham Livingston

COPYRIGHT BY GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Living in a barn, converted into a dwelling, Mrs. Penfield is manager of the "Custard Cup," originally "Closely Court." Her income is derived from laundry work, her chief patron being a Mrs. Horatius Weatherstone, whom she has never seen, living with her are "Crick" and "Thad," homeless small boys whom she has adopted. They call her "Pensie." Thad tells Penzie a strange man was inquiring for her under her maiden name.

CHAPTER II.—A tenant, Mrs. Gusie Bosley, induces Penzie to take charge of a package, which she does with some misgivings.

CHAPTER III.—Searching a refuse dump for things which might be of value, Crink, veteran at the game, encounters a small girl, Lettie, who proves a foeman worthy of his steel. He takes her to Penzie, and Lettie is adopted into the family.

CHAPTER IV.—The stranger proves to be Mrs. Penfield's uncle Jerry. He announces he is going to remain in the vicinity of The Custard Cup.

CHAPTER V.—Uncle Jerry arranges to occupy the loft above Mrs. Penfield's abode.

CHAPTER VI.—Uncle Jerry meets Prudence Hapgood, no longer young, but attractive, and the two appear to "hit it off." Well, Lorene Percy, young friend of Penzie's, tells her of her engagement to Dick Chase, also a mutual friend.

CHAPTER VII.—Friendship developing between Uncle Jerry and Frank Bosley, husband of Gusie, worries Penzie.

CHAPTER VIII.—Calm, a tenant, Mrs. Sanders, on the verge of a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Penfield reveals the tragic story of her own life, the sudden loss of her three children in an epidemic and the subsequent death of her husband.

CHAPTER IX.—Lettie's pet aversion in The Custard Cup has long been a certain Mr. Josiah Wopple, and the animosity culminates in a physical encounter in which much water is spilled.

CHAPTER X.—Dick Chase confides to Mrs. Penfield that his fiancée's stepmother, Mrs. Percy, by pleading physical helplessness, is seeking to prevent their marriage. Penzie skillfully exposes Mrs. Percy's sham, and the latter is forced to withdraw her objections.

CHAPTER XI.—The domestic difficulties of the Bosleys become a matter of gossip among the other tenants of The Custard Cup.

CHAPTER XII.—Lettie, having subtly discovered her beloved Penzie's distrust of Frank Bosley as a companion of Uncle Jerry, denounces Bosley and appeals to Uncle Jerry to give up the acquaintance. They laugh at her.

CHAPTER XIII.—Endeavoring to prevent the marriage of Lorene and Dick Chase, Mrs. Percy succeeds in badly damaging Lorene's trousseau. Mrs. Penfield, by the hardest kind of work, repairs the damage, and the wedding takes place.

CHAPTER XIV.—Remarks let fall by Mrs. Bosley leave Penzie in utter bewilderment as to the relations between Uncle Jerry and the Bosleys. Uncle Jerry is evasive in his explanations.

CHAPTER XV.—In the absence of Penzie, Lettie "entertains" Prudence Hapgood and Uncle Jerry, with disastrous results.

CHAPTER XVI.—The small members of the Penfield household insist on a Christmas celebration, Lettie engaging to provide a whole dollar for the occasion. She has an inspiration, and evolves a "machine" which she submits to an advertising agency. The manager is not at first impressed, but finally sympathizes with the earnestness of the child and gives her a dollar for the invention.

CHAPTER XVII.—Mrs. Penfield and Lettie go shopping and with infinite craft the dollar is expended.

CHAPTER XVIII.—In her joy over the coming festivities, Lettie actually makes friends with her long-time enemy, Mr. Wopple, and Mrs. Penfield improves the occasion to impress a moral lesson on her small charges. The Christmas celebration is a huge success.

Launching this formal hospitality with only the vaguest idea of its significance, she was contented when Mrs. Weatherstone merely continued to sit.

Lettie made conversation. "How's your health, Mrs. Weatherstone?"

The lady's lips danced, but she answered as a lady should. "I'm very well, thank you. How are you?"

"Oh, me!" returned Lettie jauntily. "I'm as strong as a cow. I've made as many's twenty trips today, I guess."

Mrs. Weatherstone seemed not to be familiar with the phraseology of dumps. Her dark eyes strayed to a packing box.

"Are you moving?" she inquired, in some perplexity.

"Land, no," cried Lettie in astonishment. "Them—why them are beds. Look here!" She sprang up and gave one of the boxes a vigorous twist. "This is where Crink sleeps; Thad sleeps in the other one."

"Never mind, Lettie," reproved Mrs. Penfield quietly, as she came into the room. "I'm very sorry to have kept you waiting, Mrs. Weatherstone."

Subdued, Lettie pushed back the box and withdrew to a corner, watching her beloved Penzie with speculative wonder. There was a subtle change in Mrs. Penfield's manner, even in her way of speaking. Lettie felt it, but could not know the cause. Without realizing it herself, Mrs. Penfield had reverted to the days when she had had a real home and had received callers on a basis of genial equality, vastly different from her enforced experience in The Custard Cup, an environment which was far from encouraging to niceties in speech and bearing. Her manner was as self-possessed as usual, but touched with a gracious reserve that would have been fatal in her intercourse with tenants who assumed superiority lest someone treat them as inferior. Mrs. Weatherstone, being a cultured woman, was undisturbed by thoughts of comparison. Therefore Mrs. Penfield could meet her on her own ground.

Mrs. Weatherstone sprang to her feet.

Mrs. Weatherstone proceeded at once to her errand. "I have just discovered that one of the maids gave your son the wrong bundle. I suppose you knew it was a mistake."

"A mistake!" Mrs. Penfield repeated the phrase in surprise. "No, I didn't know there was a mistake."

"You didn't? Why, didn't you get the silk hangings and that embroidered bedspread?"

"Yes, but I s'posed you intended to send 'em."

A look of alarm came into Mrs. Weatherstone's face. "What did you do with them?" Her voice was tense with suppressed anxiety.

"I washed them. Right now I was ironing."

Mrs. Weatherstone sprang to her feet. "You washed them!" she repeated, shocked and incredulous. "Do you mean that you put them into water?"

Mrs. Penfield blinked. "Sure I did. Why not?"

"Into water! My choicest hangings! How could you do it? You should have known there was a mistake. Those things were to be dry cleaned. I'd gathered up everything because we're doing the house over and re-furnishing. But water! Why—"

"What's the matter with water?" demanded Mrs. Penfield, thoughtfully puzzled. "Dry cleaning ain't half so cleansing, and things don't smell so good, either."

"I know that, but it's a slight matter compared with ruining—"

"Ruining! Do you s'pose for a minute, Mrs. Weatherstone, that I ruined your hangings and—why, I shouldn't have touched 'em if I hadn't been sure what I could do. They're looking fine."

Mrs. Weatherstone's shoulders relaxed; the tension in her bearing blended into her usual grace. "What do you mean?" she asked weakly.

"I'll show you, but you'll have to come into the kitchen." She led the way and pointed to a spread, thrown across a line. It was of cashmere satin, woven in India and embroidered with delicate silks in a raised pattern. Hundreds and hundreds of stitches had gone into every square inch.

"Hand-made dyes," said Mrs. Penfield earnestly. "They don't use any others for that kind of work."

Mrs. Weatherstone's eyelids lifted with involuntary surprise. Mrs. Penfield smiled, but made no explanation. Experience in a wealthy family had given her this knowledge, but she allowed the information to stand alone, as Mrs. Weatherstone would have done.

"I'd only just begun to iron the hangings," continued Mrs. Penfield presently. She held up a length of rose silk embroidered in a scattered design of self color. Mrs. Weatherstone stripped off her glove and felt of the material. She shook her head. "I wouldn't have believed it could be done. It's marvelous. Do you mean, Mrs. Penfield, that you washed this and the spread in the water, as you would white embroidered?"

"Land, no. I'd have ruined 'em that way for sure. I washed 'em with a bag."

"With a— Did you say a bag?"

"Yes, like this one." Mrs. Penfield produced from the cupboard a small bag of muslin, half filled with a soft substance.

Mrs. Weatherstone felt of that, too, but was still puzzled.

"Is it something that you buy?"

Mrs. Penfield laughed. "Oh, no, I make 'em myself. It's a mixture of grains and—"

"Stop!" cried Mrs. Weatherstone, throwing up her hand in a gesture of quick authority. "Don't you tell me what's in it."

"Why not? I'd just as soon you'd know as not."

"Don't you tell me—or anybody else. Don't you tell a soul what's in it."

Mrs. Penfield gazed at her in silent bewilderment.

"You remember what I say. Keep it to yourself."

"I don't see why," said Mrs. Penfield slowly. "It's just something I worked out, and it's been wonderful for the children's dresses. I can keep gingham as bright as ever—if it ain't faded to begin with. I stumbled on it first by accident, and then I experimented till I got the right ingredients and proportions and—"

"That's just it," nodded Mrs. Weatherstone, "and you've worked out a method that is ahead of the commercial methods. You keep your own counsel till I talk with a man I know who owns a chain of laundries. I'll have him come to talk with you."

A flash of gratitude lighted Mrs. Penfield's brown eyes. "Oh, if it could be worth something!" she stammered. "I never had thought of that. And I thank you. I always knew you were kind."

Mrs. Weatherstone's glance traveled briefly around the bare kitchen; rested on Lettie, who had followed silently; skipped to Thad, who had padded in from the yard. . . . She bit her lips, as if an unwelcome conclusion about her own thoughtfulness had forced its way into her mind.

"I'm sorry I was impatient, Mrs. Penfield," she apologized, as they went back into the living-room, "but I never dreamed you were so skillful." She was fastening her scarf as she spoke.

"Oh, do wait a minute, please," begged Mrs. Penfield. "That sounds like Crink's whistle. He'd be so glad to meet you!"

Crink came in at the big door, Crink in the turned overcoat, pulling off his shabby cap. Lettie and Thad in their thin cotton, were dressed according to the sunshine and the really mild temperature; but Crink, coming in contact with the outside world, was dressed according to the calendar month of January, nominally winter.

"This is Crink," said Mrs. Penfield, proudly. "Crink, ain't it grand to see Mrs. Weatherstone?"

"I should say!" Crink stepped forward eagerly. "I want to thank you for this here overcoat. Gee, it's a dandy! It was pretty good last winter, but now Penzie's turned it, ain't nobody got better."

"You turned Gertrude's coat!" murmured Mrs. Weatherstone. "Why, I never should imagine it wasn't new."

Drawing on her glove, she became graciously conversational. "Crink, my dear, is it possible that you and Lettie are twins? You're about the same size, but your coloring is so different!"

"No, ma'am, we ain't twins. I'm most ten, but I don't know how old Lettie is. What would you say, Penzie?"

"I expect Lettie's younger," smiled Mrs. Penfield. "Only a few months, likely. And you know we're guessing more or less 'bout your age, too. 'Proximate ages'll do very well for all three of you. There's a heap of things more important."

Mrs. Weatherstone paused with her fingers on the clasp of the glove she had been about to fasten. Her dark eyes were full of inquiry, but her lips were polite.

Mrs. Penfield answered her expression. "They weren't mine at all originally. I—I lost my own."

"Oh. But they are related?"

"Bless you, no. I just adopted 'em." Mrs. Penfield waved her hand carelessly, in a rather correct indication of the vague beginnings which all three had had.

"You—adopted—three children?" exclaimed Mrs. Weatherstone.

"Why, yes. It wasn't nothing. I wanted to, and I could as well's not."

Mrs. Weatherstone, looking at the other woman across a vast gulf of economic disparity, smiled gently. "Yes," she said, in a low voice, "you could."

Crink was uneasy. There was something in the interview that he did not understand. He felt the undercurrent of unspoken thoughts and could only infer that his beloved Penzie was being criticized. He caught Mrs. Weatherstone's glance, keen, swift, darting from the vivid pictures on the wall to the packing boxes, to the few straight chairs, to the bare spaces around the room where furniture most conveniently might have been.

"Yes," repeated Mrs. Weatherstone softly, "you could."

Crink plunged into defense. "You don't understand, Mrs. Weatherstone," he said earnestly. "It ain't a bit as you're thinking. We get along fine—honest, we do. I earn some money now, and a lot of old vegetables and things. And we always have lots to eat—that is, all except last week, and then—then we got along. But that's the only time. We always have grand spreads—two kinds to every meal, and sometimes—"

He caught a warning glance from Mrs. Penfield and stopped in confusion.

"Golly, what're you folks talking about?" burst out Lettie with violence. "Who ever thought we didn't have the swellest eats? Best chow on the Coast! Never was anybody like Penzie. Lordy, she's got me solid. I'd die 'fore I'd get h'listed outa here. You'd just oughter—"

"Children—children—" reproved Mrs. Penfield, who by quieter, more unobtrusive means had been unable to check this torrent of gratuitous explanation. "I'm 'shamed of you."

Mrs. Weatherstone made no comment on the intimate revelations. She gathered up her muff and moved toward the door.

"Will the hangings be ready tomorrow, Mrs. Penfield? Then I'll send for them; you won't have to fold them so much in that case. And I shall speak to Mr. Cranshaw. I'm sure he'll come to see you. Good-by—and Happy New Year."

With a charming smile she stepped down to the warped board that took the place of front porch.

"We'll all go out with you," shouted Lettie. "And come again whenever you can, won't you? It's been awful interesting, seeing you."

SPRING STYLES ARE "BOY-CUT"

"Boy-cut" is the name given by the Fashion Art League of America to the new tailored styles for spring, which league members will show at the semi-annual exhibit of American-made clothes to be held here from March 10 to 15 at the Auditorium and Congress hotels.

The boy-cut suit and dress is the accomplishment of the shingle bob, according to the Mme. Alla Ripley, president of the league and the garment gives the same boyish trimness to the feminine figure that the bob gives to the feminine head.

"Each year they get slimmer and slimmer," says Mme. Ripley "and this year the boyish tailored suit and street dress have reached the last possible degree of slimmness. Waistcoat effects and vest fronts add greatly to the mannish modes in many of our show garments, but the fact that these vests and also the cuffs and collar are often made of organdies or touches of lace preserve the softness of the outline."

"There are styles, too, coming out during the showing which will delight the heart of the older woman, for a more formal elegance than for many seasons past marks the new costume suits, which are a dress and wrap combined. These costumes will be exceptionally smart for formal afternoon wear."

More than 3,000 delegates from all parts of the country arrived in Chicago Monday for the week's convention. The special fashion showing will take place afternoon and evening, March 13, at the Congress.

BASEBALL BUG BITES STATE LINE FANS

Although there has been much "hot stove league" talk of abandoning State Line park and having no baseball team this season, it has been definitely decided by the Legion posts of Richmond and Genoa Junction to stay in the game and the chances are that State Line will this year have one of the best baseball aggregations in this locality. Baseball at State Line has not been a losing proposition financially, the receipts and expenses being about an even break for the past two years.

The affairs at State Line have already been managed by a board of directors selected from each town, and while things have always run smoothly and without friction, this system has its disadvantages and in consequence it has cost more to run the team than would have been the case under a one-man management. Many of the leading patrons and Legion men seem to favor a one-man management this season, that is to manage the team on and off the playing field. Of course there is no chance for John Vosburgh to get out of performing the duties of secretary and treasurer, which office he has attended to so satisfactorily since the organization of the team here.

"Lefty" Seiberlich, "Cooney" Williams, "Bill" Edgar and "Herbie" McClellan have all been heard from and they seem anxious to kick up dust at State Line again this season. Wm. Barthell is sojourning in California and does not know when he will return.

Money is being raised by popular subscription to purchase new uniforms and to this fund about $60 has been subscribed.

This Man Wouldn't Stay Down

HE was putting in long hours at monotonous unskilled work. His small pay scarcely lasted from one week to the next. Pleasures were few and far between and he couldn't save a cent.

He was down—but he wouldn't stay down! He saw other men promoted, and he made up his mind that what they could do he could do. Then he found the reason they were promoted was because they had special training—an expert knowledge of some one line. So he made up his mind that he would get that kind of training.

He marked and mailed to Scranton a coupon like the one on the right. That was his first step upward. It brought him just the information he was looking for. He found he could get the training he needed right at home in the hours after supper. From that time on he spent part of his spare time studying.

The first reward was not long in coming—an increase in salary. Then came another. Then he was made Assistant Manager. Now he is Manager with an income that means independence and all the comforts and pleasures that make life worth living.

It just shows what a man with ambition can do. And this man is only one out of hundreds of thousands who have climbed the same steps to success with the help of the International Correspondence Schools.

What about you? Are you satisfied merely to hang on where you are or would you, too, like to have a real job and real money? It's entirely up to you. You don't have to stay down. You can climb to the position you want in the work you like best. Yes, you can! The I. C. S. is ready and anxious to come to you, wherever you are, with the very help you need.

Surely when you have an opportunity that means so much, you can't afford to let another priceless hour pass without at least finding out about it. And the way to do that is easy—without cost, without obligating yourself in any way, mark and mail this coupon.

Lew Hendee Badly Hurt in Accident

County Clerk Lew Hendee was seriously injured Friday while walking down the unfinished steps leading from the main floor of the new court house addition to the basement. As the result of tripping on one of the boards in the steps he fell head long down four steps, dislocating his left shoulder and breaking a bone.

It happened about 5:30 Friday evening. Mr. Hendee was starting for home and while there were employees left in his office there were few others around that part of the building when he started down the stairs. These stairs are made of iron and the cement filling has not yet been put in. That part of the building has been put into use really before it was finished and therefore boards were placed in the step proper which will later be filled with a composition.

It was while walking down on these boards that Mr. Hendee tripped and fell headlong. He landed on the side of his head and injured his temple so he was almost rendered unconscious. However, he managed to crawl back up the steps to the office of the county treasurer to get hold of a telephone to call Dr. Bellows and the doctor hurried over to the court house. He immediately took Mr. Hendee to the Victory Memorial hospital where the shoulder was thrown back into place and bandaged. About 8:30 he was taken to his home all strapped up and suffering great pain.

State Senate Is House of Elders

on the floor of the senate Senator Swift is recognized as being a bitter foe to waste and extravagance. His work in preventing useless commissions, in knocking out bad measures and insisting that no wages be paid to those who don't work has been commended all over the state.

R. B. SWIFT

That band of public spirited men, the Legislative Voters' league who hire an able secretary to report the legislative work in Springfield has this to say of Senator Swift.

"Rodney B. Swift, senator (Rep.); farmer, Lake Forest. Ending his second term, during which he made a highly creditable record; was one of the most steadfast members of the Senate in opposing the objectionable schemes of Governor Small; during the last session he made a close study of appropriation bills and presented amendments to such bills in committee and on the floor which saved the public a great deal of money."

Always for roads, his farm teams drew his road drag back and forth before there was any cement and he was the first president of the Lake County Good Roads association. No man has tried harder to protect the taxpayer from the greed of the material contractors and from direct taxation for roads. Let the roads be paid by license fees of those who use them and see that they are built honestly and between towns where there is enough traffic to justify them and not where influential citizens and bodies of citizens will agree to pay for them with votes. More traffic goes over certain roads in the Eighth District in one day than over some roads in remote districts in a whole year.

The 100 million dollar road bill will be voted on next November. When that bill was put before the senate it gave the Eighth District far less mileage than our auto fees called for and Senator Swift in open fight before the committee and on the floor of the senate forced amendments adding nearly 75 miles additional roads for this district. Only a man who could fight and who knew what he was doing had any business trying to add to the mileage that had been set aside for the county.

Senator Swift helped pass the hard road bill under which all the hard roads the county has laid are built. He helped write the names of the towns into this bill while Frank Lowden was yet governor without which there would have been unforeseen changes.

Now, a few words personal—he worked as a boy to earn the money to send himself through a first class college and to get a degree of B. S. and through a good law school to a degree and an admission to practice in the Supreme court. He has been able to take a decided hand in school legislation and to give school measures constructive thought. He introduced the bill to help the state normal schools and was chairman of the committee to visit the educational institutions of the state. He is one of the advisory committee appointed by the board of the state university.

Senator Swift is the chairman also of that important committee on community welfare, and having been a worker all his life with his hands and brain he knows what it is to work and what the laboring men need. He introduced and it became a law, the measure to rehabilitate the crippled in industry. He introduced and passed the bill for schools for crippled children.

But this could go on and on. He has a family, wife and three children, —one, nine and ten years old. His home farm that he still owns just west of the village of Libertyville is one of the most productive in Illinois. He owns more than one thousand acres of land. He is and has been a success and has traveled in all countries and knows the world and the problems that are before the state as well as the problems of the farm. For 25 years he was a manufacturer and finally after selling the business of which he was a one-third owner to the International Harvester company, he went to a farm which he made in to one of the best and most productive in America.

If the Eighth District wants the services of Senator Swift for another term it must get its voters to the polls. He has stopped certain practices and money grabs that have made him enemies and if he goes back he will stop more. There are those who don't want him in Springfield. If the honest taxpayers do they now have the chance.—adv.

Would Make All of Lake Co. Wild Game Preserve

A recommendation for a wild game preserve in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois as a feature of the Chicago regional plan was made by a delegation from the Kenosha county (Wisconsin) board of supervisors, which attended a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago Regional Planning association, held at the City club in Chicago.

William Luke of Wheatland, Wis., was the spokesman for the Kenosha delegation which submitted this idea. The others in the delegation were Nicholas J. Rodgers and Jacob Hermann.

"The northeast part of Illinois and the southeast part of Wisconsin taken together probably have the greatest layout for a wild game preserve that could be found anywhere in the country," said Mr. Luke. "It couldn't be duplicated. There are the lakes and the hills. Much of our lake shore—I mean of these lakes in northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, not merely the shore of the big lake—is still accessible to the public. We have all kinds of game and fish, and the land could be gotten cheap for such preserves, which would be as fine playgrounds as the forest preserves and public parks.

"Any one driving through northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin will appreciate the need of regional planning. It is too bad it has not been done before. If we had had a planning commission in years past it could have done oceans of good.

"I want to say that we of Kenosha county are ready to lend a helping hand for this cause of regional planning."

CLOSES DEAL FOR STATE HATCHERY

W. J. Stratton of Lake County, state fish and game warden, last week closed the deal for the purchase of the site at the Blackberry dam west of the proposed fish hatchery. The deeds and abstracts were signed and taken to Springfield by Stratton, where only the routine matters will have to be taken care of to have the property pass into the hands of the state. The consideration was $9,000.

Work on the hatchery will be started in the spring. Mr. Stratton told the people at Yorkville. He said that the site is ideal for a hatchery and that it can be developed into one of the best in the middle west.

The hatchery at Yorkville is one of three for which appropriation was made by the last state legislature. One will be located in the southern, one in the central, and one in the northern part of the state.

There are about twenty acres of land in the site. This includes an old mill, which can be converted into use for the hatchery, and a substantial rock and concrete dam about ten feet high. Altho the property includes a large mill pond above the dam, the fish ponds will be built below the dam on a large flat.

Lakeside Hotel at Druce's Lake Burns to Ground

Fire, which broke out shortly after 8 o'clock Friday night at the Lakeside hotel, Druce's Lake burned until the early hours of the morning, completely destroying the hotel, a laundry building and damaged two other structures. The total loss was estimated at about $15,000. Besides the four buildings in which the flames raged 20 cottages were threatened, the work of a bucket brigade and the Grayslake fire department saving the cottages.

The blaze started in the hotel building being discovered at 8:15 o'clock by Lewis Brickman, proprietor of the general store at Druce Lake. It broke out on the roof. An overheated chimney is believed to have been the cause.

From the hotel the flames spread to the laundry building, ice house and a cottage adjacent to these buildings.

Upon discovering the hotel a mass of flames Brickman, whose store is about 300 feet from the hotel site ran to the hotel and notified those in the place. Charles I. Kennedy, the proprietor of the hotel and owner of laundry and ice house, and his wife and four children were there at the time. There were no guests.

Brickman called the Grayslake volunteer department and in the mean time organized a bucket brigade to fight the fire. There were several hundred men in the brigade during the course of the evening and early morning hours.

The hotel is but 150 feet from the lake, but as the lake was frozen it was the difficult matter to get water to fight the fire, it first being necessary, according to Brickman, to cut ice to a depth of 20 inches before the water supply was available.

The hotel and laundry buildings were burned to the ground. The roof of the ice house was burned and it is feared that much of the ice will melt away. There was expensive machinery in the laundry which was ruined.

The cottage damaged by fire was the summer home of Dr. Gehardt, a Chicago physician. It is located 50 feet north of the hotel.

The 20 cottages threatened are situated south and east of the hotel. Crews of men were stationed at each of the cottages and as soon as the sparks hit the roofs of these buildings they were brushed off, being all that prevented the cottages from burning down. Only two were occupied, the others being summer homes.

The fire could be seen for miles and hundreds of persons from various parts of the county drove to the scene of the fire and assisted in fighting the flames, which spread rapidly being fanned by a strong wind.

A piano and victrola were carried from the hotel building, everything else being destroyed.

Tax Reduction Bill Now Up to the Senate

The tax reduction bill as passed by the House of Representatives is now before the Finance committee of the Senate. In just what shape that bill will pass the Senate is problematical. Just what the rates will be no one can determine. The results rests largely with the people of the nation. If they demand of their representatives and senators that a real, not a political tax reduction plan be passed the people will benefit by such legislation.

President Coolidge, in his speech on Lincoln's Day in New York stated the case very clearly when he said: "But the people must understand this is their fight. They alone can win it. Unless they make their wishes known to the Congress without regard to party this bill will not pass. I urge them to renewed efforts." It is accepted by republicans and democrats alike that the President earnestly desires that the burden of heavy taxation be reduced. Since August 1919, by the strictest economy $4,500,000,000 of the national debt has been wiped out. This means a reduction in interest of almost $200,000,000, a portion of which every man woman and child in this country must pay. Take care of this debt and at the same time reduce taxes, an honest tax reduction bill must pass Congress. No political make-shift like the Garner Bill will relieve the people of the country. Members of Congress have been given to understand that the President is against any raids on the public treasury, or any unnecessary expenditures made. He is determined that the financial burden of the people of the nation shall be lessened.

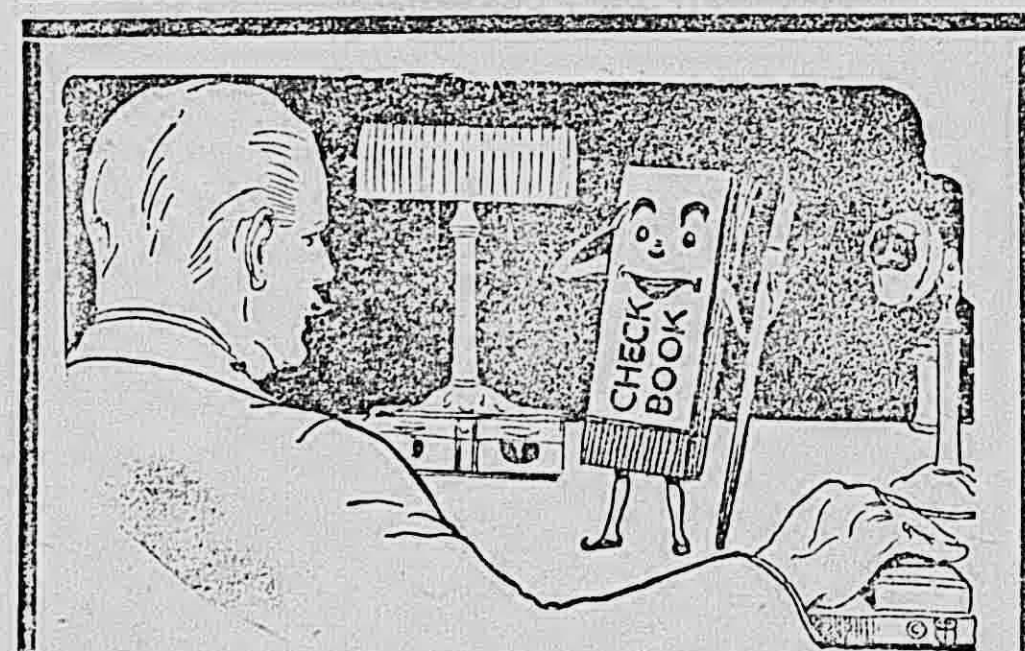

Calvin Coolidge will veto any bill that calls for expenditures of the people's money that is not absolutely necessary. He will not stand for any "pork-barrel" business.

The people believe in Coolidge's honesty and ability. The people know that the present occupant of the White House is determined that their interests shall be protected. Politicians are now fully aware that his "NO" means No. Political demagogues, if they desire to stay in public life, will have to change their methods. The old tricks used by politicians are out of date. This is no time for flowery speeches. What the people are demanding is that Congress support President Coolidge in his demand for a tax reduction bill that will really reduce, and unless Congress gives it to the people and to the President, there will be numerous strange faces in the next Congress.
